Winemaker's Tasting Notes

“Toasty and exotic aromas of spiced vanilla, pears, orange zest/peel, Crème Brûlée on the nose. The palate is focused and precise with layers of citrus, tart plum, and honeycomb. A long finish balanced with beautiful acidity.”

Vintage Notes

Record-cold temperatures and an unforeseen frost highlighted April. The ice that accumulated on the vines post-bud break left many wondering if there would be any grapes to harvest come Fall. May and June followed with unusually cool temperatures, furthering the worry of low yields or a complete loss. July through September was surprisingly warm and helped get the growing season back on track. Warm temperatures and little rain were seen through a good portion of October, allowing the fruit extra weeks of hang time compared to the recent vintages in Oregon. Longtime Willamette Valley winemakers have called it a "classic Oregon vintage," the type of vintage that persuaded people to plant Pinot Noir here in the first place.
